

Unprecedented Gathering Of Priests and Laymen at Funeral of Father Burns

More Than Twice as Many as Can Be Accommodated at Church.

EULOGY DELIVERED

Service limited, at Request of Dead
Father of Immaculate Conception Congregation, That This Be Eliminated; Prayers of People Only Wish

With business at a standstill in the city and with Rev. Hugh Boyle, bishop of the diocese and priest from nearby, every parish in Western Pennsylvania in attendance and with more than twice as many persons in and out of the church than the edifice would hold, funeral services were conducted this morning at 10 o'clock at the Immaculate Conception Church for Rev. John T. Burns, pastor of the church for over a quarter of a century.

At the request of Father Burns the service was limited to solemn high mass of requiem. There was no eulogy. Bishop Boyle in announcing the service said that the late pastor of the church, whose only other quest was that his congregation regularly in their prayers and at mass.

The funeral was the largest ever held in Connellsville. The big church is not nearly large enough to accommodate the thousands of persons who had assembled to pay their last tribute to the dead priest. The auditium and balcony were packed to the utmost capacity and as many persons remained on the outside during the services. Men and women in walks of life were there. Members of the City Council, headed by Mayor Charles C. Mitchell, attended in a body, as did representatives of the Connellsville Ministerial Association.

Out of respect for Father Burns virtually every store in the city was closed during the funeral services.
The students attending the public schools were also dismissed in time to attend the funeral. The visiting priests returned to their respective parishes this afternoon and evening on account of tomorrow being Ascension day, which will be observed in all the Catholic churches with special services.

Solemn requiem high mass was celebrated by Rev. William J. McCashan, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church, assisted by Rev. William Merz of Avella, a former assistant to Father Burns, as deacon
and Rev. Henry DeVivo of St. Rita's Catholic Church, West Side, as sacristan.

Father Canova of St.
Joseph's Church of Lehigh-
valley, Pa., had charge of the music.
Miss Jennie Cuneo, the church
singer, was at the organ.

On either side of the church altar
were numerous and handsome floral baskets.

The pallbearers were J. J. Dougherty, J. W. Neunthaler, J. J. Schenck,
J. W. Swanson, J. W. Ralston, J. J.
Adams, J. L. Ash and James Burns,
a present church committee.

Marching in a body the Fourth Department, Knights of Columbus,
uniformed, of which Father Burns
is a member, the third degree rights, the Young Ladies' Society of the Children of Mary, preceded the pallbearers. The pallbearers, clergy, by Commend, mourners and friends followed in automobiles. The Holy Society and the Knights of St.
Joseph also were in line.

As the many visiting priests went to the church to the parish house
following the services in the church,
a large congregation were stationed on Page Two.

Region's Coal Market Feels Effects of Plan to Prevent High Prices

The effect of the efforts of Secretary of Commerce Hoover to prevent excessive advance in the price of all has been very promptly felt in the coal region. The prices have already dropped $1.00 a ton to $3.25,
board cars at the mine, and there is a very noticeable falling off in demand. This is due to the temporary curtailment of buyers who have anticipated that Secretary Hoover's effort would result in a reduction of prices. It is expected that within a few days, when the market has become somewhat more settled, there will be a return of buyers, at least in part.

The region's mines which recently resumed operations will likely find it difficult to continue operations, as the trade has been driven to the union fields of West Virginia and Kentucky but more in the result of a strike in this region than of the measures to prevent price inflation.

LEGION AUXILIARY TO CO-OPERATE IN SALE OF POPPIES

According to Arrangements
With Veterans of Foreign Wars.

LADIES OF SENIOR CLASS

Of the High School to Assist on Friday and Saturday; Proceeds to Be Applied to the Relief of Disabled
Veterans Who Served in World War

In cooperation with the Veterans of Foreign Wars, which will put on a sale of Poppies on Friday and Saturday through the young ladies of the Sponsors' Club, the American Legion Auxiliary will join
on the same days to make the sale
even more of a success than a year ago.

The poppy having been adopted by the Veterans of Foreign Wars as the official flower of the organization and by the Legion Auxiliary as its memorial flower, representatives of the two organizations held a conference some time ago and arranged to cooperate
in the sale of the flowers at the end of the week preceding Memorial Day.

Mrs. D. K. Dilworth having been selected by the auxiliary as chairman of the committee to conduct the sale
on behalf of this organization she has named the following to serve as her aids:

Mrs. A. B. Morton, Mrs. F. H. Harman, Mrs. Lou Robbins, Mrs. Mary
C. Minnie, Mrs. D. D. Fretts, Mrs.
Laura Clark, Miss Audith Bixler, Miss
Myrtle Bixler, Mrs. Marie Hood Sturgeon, Mrs. James Rappert, Miss Ruth Shallenberger, Mrs. Z. S. Moon, Mrs.
D. C. Fosselman, Mrs. W. C. Crouse,
Mrs. Ella Berkley, Mrs. J. Montgomery Dilworth, Mrs. John A. Fosselman
and Mrs. John L. Gans. These ladies will be assisted in the sale by the young ladies members of the senior class of the high school.

The proceeds of the sale by both the Legion Auxiliary and the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be applied to the relief of disabled veterans of the World War. That and the wearing of the emblem in honor of the soldier dead, being the object and purpose of the sale, buyers will have the privilege of paying such sum for the flowers as their interest in a worthy cause prompts them to do, but no
poppies are expected to be sold at less than 10 cents each.

Payroll Holdup Frustrated.
BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 24.—One bandit was killed, another injured
and the $12,000 current's payroll of the Connecticut Company was recovered after a hold-up by four men and a pistol fight with the police today. The other bandits were captured.

President of Pennsylvania Association So Declares at Convention.

CO-OPERATION IS URGED

Each Department in the Makeup of the Nation Must Put Shoulder to the Wheel, He Says, Declaring That Part
Each Has to Play is Important.

By Associated Press.
PITTSBURGH, May 24.—More than 1,500 bankers from all parts of Pennsylvania were here today at the opening session of the Pennsylvania
Bankers Association, the silver anniversary of the organization. The convention will continue for three days.
President Alex. Dunbar of Pittsburgh spoke encouragingly of the business situation in his opening address,
declaring that the part the bankers
is to play in the general revival is most important. He urged closer cooperation on the part of the banks
on one hand and business and agriculture on the other.

Mayor Asks People To Wear Poppies On Memorial Day

Emphasizing the poppy as the symbol of tribute to the dead of the World War, Mayor Charles C. Mitchell has issued a proclamation calling on the people of the city to wear one of these little flowers on Memorial Day in commemoration of the heroism and complete sacrifice of those who gave their all.

The poppy sale will open Friday
and continue until Memorial Day. The proclamation follows:
"Whereas, the President of the United States has expressed the hope that through the symbol of the poppy worn on Memorial Day the people of these United States shall pay their tribute to the soldier-dead, and

Whereas, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, which organization has been officially designated to support the poppy movement, will cause to be sold on Memorial Day poppies to be worn in commemoration of the heroism
of our World War dead, the proceeds of such sales to be used for alleviating the condition of their disabled comrades,

"Now therefore I, Charles C. Mitchell, mayor of Connellsville, Pa., earnestly urge that the citizens of this city give their sincere cooperation to this cause which has for its purpose the commemoration of the sacrifices of those who gave their lives
or their health in the defense of their country."

Irish Insurgents Set Car Afire, Start It on Wild Race

BELFAST, May 24.—Eight armed men boarded a tram car in a lonely park in Falls road today, and while two covered the crew with their weapons the others saturated both decks of the car with coal oil. Then with piles of paper they set the car
afire and sent it speeding toward the city. A workman boarded the runaway and pulled the trolley, stopping
it. Residents of the district extinguished the flames.

DEFENDANTS IN LIQUOR CASES MUST PAY THE PENALTY

Order of Supreme Court in Appeal Makes Specific Disposition.

LEADING MEN AFFECTED

In compliance with orders from the United States Supreme Court and the Superior Court of the state, District Attorney William A. Miller Tuesday evening sent notices to all defendants in the so-called liquor cases who have taken appeals from the decision of the local court, to appear in court next Wednesday morning, May 31, for whatever order the court may impose.
District Attorney Miller was advised
by the clerk of the United States Supreme Court that the mandate in the case of Tony Vigliotti against the State of Pennsylvania had been forwarded to the Supreme Court of the state on May 18 and received in Philadelphia on the following day. He was also advised by the prothonotary of the Superior Court of the state that the records in the case had been forwarded to the Fayette County Quarters Sessions Court for execution on Saturday, May 20.

The order came today.
The Supreme Court order indicates that the defendants will be re-sentenced; that there is no alternative.
It reads:

"The judgment of the Fayette County Court is affirmed and it is ordered that the defendants appear in the Fayette County Court at such time
as they may be ordered by that court
and that they be committed until they have complied with the sentence or any part of it which has not been performed at the time appeal in the case was made a supersedeasum."

The original sentences were imposed by Judge E. H. Rappert.
Eighteen defendants are affected by the ruling of the highest tribunal sustaining the Fayette county courts on the question of the constitutionality of the Brooke law, but only eight reached that court. The remainder of the 18 cases rested with the Superior Court of the state, pending the decision of the higher court, on the case of Vigliotti. The order from the highest courts direct that the defendants appear at such time as required to comply with whatever order the court may impose. Each of the defendants gave bail ranging from $2,500 to $5,000
when the appeals were taken. Should any fail to appear next Wednesday
their bail would be forfeited. The list of the cases reaching the Superior Court includes: Max Hamman, Louis
Karnovsky, F. C. Monahan, Francis Szankowsky, Jesse Monke, C. W. Johnson, Harry Krell and Karlman Krizom.
Those reaching the U. S. Supreme Court include: Mike Espar, Marcello
Espar, Mike Mondalek, Mary Shab-allas Mondalek, Frank Williams, Tony Vigliotti and Sam Dexter.

The first trial was held in June,
1929 and the second trial in the fall of 1929 and the spring of 1931.

GENERAL WOOD SAFE AFTER 36 HOURS' ANXIETY

MANILA, May 24.—Leonard Wood,
governor of the Philippines,
is safe, after being missing 36 hours,
following a typhoon, according to word received today. His yacht, the Apo, was reported to have taken refuge on an island near Mindoro,
where the governor general, accompanied by his wife and daughter, had gone Saturday on an inspection trip.
Since the typhoon anxiety had been felt for the safety of General Wood,
The Apo is a small yacht and vessels generally in the vicinity of the island were driven helplessly. For two days efforts to reach the Apo were unavailing.

EFFICIENCY HAS BEEN KEYNOTE OF ADMINISTRATION

Substantial Results Achieved
Following Eight Years
Democratic Misrule.

PRESIDENT IS PRAISED

Not All Erils of Wilsonism Have Been Remedied, Senator Watson Declares
at Indiana Convention, but Labor Strikes Have Been Taken.

By Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, May 24.—Efficiency
and wise management of the nation's affairs, both domestic and international, and substantial results in relieving "the evils of eight years of Democratic misrule" were claimed for the Harding administration in an address here today by Senator Watson, Republican of Indiana, before the Indiana Republican state convention.
For years it has been the custom of Indiana Republicans to have the keynote of the national campaigns sounded before them, and Senator Watson's speech, which was discussed in advance with President Harding, will be incorporated in the party literature
for the congressional campaign this fall.

Senator Watson praised the executive, legislative and diplomatic record
of the present administration and flayed
the recent Democratic administrations as "debilitating, delinquent,
creating, bond-issuing, surplus-sentencing, factory-closing, industry-paralyzing, prosperity-destroying, social upheaving, and anarchy-producing."
"We are not responsible for all this waste," he declared. "We did not produce all this wreckage. We did not incur these debts. We have not piled up this mountain of obligations, and these gentlemen who are responsible for all this riotous orgy and extravagance and all this upsetting of industry and unsettling of financial conditions, now stand and jeer at us because in 14 months we have not overcome all the evil they produced
in eight years."

"We have not yet accomplished all that we have set out to do," he continued. "We have not cured all the ills and corrected all the mistakes
and overcome all the evils of eight years of Democratic misrule, but certainly we have taken long strides in the right direction and assuredly if the Republican party cannot adjust matters which are there in turning to the organization that caused all
the disaster in the beginning."

Reduction of taxes and appropriations, reorganization of the Shipping Board, agricultural relief, the tariff bill and diplomacy of the present administration were emphasized by Senator Watson.

President Harding's call for the arms conference, he declared, was
"the largest step toward international peace with justice the world has known in all its history" and the whole world, he said, applauded the results. The four-power treaty, the senator said, brought understanding and assurances for peace.

Declaration of the invitation to the Genoa conference also was commended
by Mr. Watson who said it was a political and not an economic conference.

"The world by this time ought to understand," he continued, "that we do not intend to become involved in their political wrangles and that we are willing to lend aid or give counsel
and maintain always a sympathetic attitude yet we will refuse to be dragged into their financial difficulties
and we always will decline to meddle with their national affairs or become involved in their age-old rivalries."

In domestic affairs, Senator Watson
said, the Harding administration
stood for "full freedom in business
and a recognition of the larger right of the individual to control and operate his own business affairs."

"The 'new freedom' preached by Woodrow Wilson was a grotesque

Braithwaite Asks For a New Trial

GREENSBURG, May 24.—Council
Tuesday filed an application for a new trial for their client, Alton Braithwaite, convicted of murder in the second degree at the May term of criminal court, just closed.

The motion will be argued at the coming session of argument court
which opens Monday, June 5.
The motion sets forth that the verdict given in the Braithwaite case was against the law, the evidence and the weight of evidence, and discusses at some length alleged errors made by the judge in charging the jury.

COMMERCE BODY IS GIVEN SUPPORT BY LABOR UNION

Plumbers Declare Organization Deserves Backing of All Classes.

OTHERS MAY FOLLOW LEAD

Local Association of Pipe and Steam Fitters Pledges Each Member in
One Day's Work During Coming
Year to Help Put the Town on Map.

Connellsville's Chamber of Commerce deserves the support of every good citizen of the community, regardless of whether he might be classified with capital or labor, according to Local Union No. 480 of the United Association of Pipe and Steam Fitters. Backing up deeds with words, the plumbers' union has made application in behalf of Roy Templeton, its secretary and treasurer, for membership. This is the first time that a labor union has formally recognized
the fact that a Connellsville Chamber of Commerce existed. It is expected that other unions will follow this lead.

The plumbers not only have elected
one of their number as a representative of their craft, but they have also pledged each member of the union to give one day's work during the coming year for the purpose of putting Connellsville definitely on the map.

A number of members of local labor unions have already enrolled as members of the Chamber of Commerce, but only as individuals. The plumbers decided that their organization should be represented by an officer and applied for membership in behalf of secretary Templeton.

"Mr. Templeton will be heartily welcomed as a member of the Chamber of Commerce," declared President C. T. Kopper, when advised that the application had been received.
"The Chamber of Commerce is working for the welfare of the entire community. We are delighted to see that the plumbers recognize that any good accomplished for Connellsville will reflect to the benefit of themselves,
just as it will to every other citizen."

"The Chamber of Commerce welcomes an application from the representative of a labor union as unpre-
served as it would from a manufacturing concern. The community needs
the cooperation and advice that can come from men of all activities of life."

It is expected that the lead of the plumbers will probably be followed by other locals affiliated with the Central Trades and Labor Council of Connellsville.

The following letter accompanied the application of Secretary Templeton
for membership.

"We hand you herewith application
for a membership in the Chamber of Commerce to represent the Journeymen Plumbers Union No. 480 of Connellsville, Pa.

"We wish to offer our hearty cooperation as individuals in the furtherance of any movement for the betterment of Connellsville and the assistance of this organization.

"We wish further to offer the service of each member of this body for one day during the next year if called upon to assist in putting Connellsville
on the map."

The letter is signed by Roy Templeton, secretary and treasurer of the union.

Average Is Given as 10 Per Cent But Regional Figures Are Higher.

14 PER CENT IN EAST

Lesser Figure Named for Southern,
Western and Pacific Roads; Passenger Rates and Pullman Charges
Are Not Affected by the Order.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 24.—Reduction
in freight rates averaging in excess of 10 per cent was ordered today by the Interstate Commerce Commission
in a decision resulting from its inquiry into the general rate structure.
The cut was fixed at 14 per cent in eastern territory, 13 1/2 per cent in western territory and 12 in southern, Mountain and Pacific territory.

Reductions are effective July 1 and constitute a greater cut than was expected.

The commission held that the railroads are entitled to 5-14 per cent on the value of the property rather than the "approximately 6 per cent" provided under the Transportation Act of 1920.

Transportation charges on passenger travel and Pullman charges were unaffected by the order.

G. A. R. Men Set Forth Duties of Children On Memorial Day

The school children of Connellsville were called on yesterday by members of the William F. Kurtz Post, No. 104, to turn out on Memorial Day and bring flowers for placing on the graves of the dead in the cemetery.

A committee of Civil War Veterans
made the rounds of every school in the city and was cordially received at each. All members of the party spoke to the students and reminded them it was a sacred as well as a patriotic duty to observe the day with solemnity.

The usual program will be followed out on the morning of Memorial Day and the school children will supply the flowers for the soldiers.

In the committee visiting the schools were W. P. Clark, J. J. Barnhart, Lyman S. Bricker, W. H. Shaw, William H. Hill and E. Dunn of William F. Kurtz Post, W. T. Kennedy
and Mr. Beighly of Will F. Sweeney
Post, No. 120, Uniontown, and B. B.
Smith, superintendent of schools.

The veterans were transported from building to building in automobiles driven by Misses Margaret Dull
and Mary Armstrong.

Court Approves Construction of Three Bridges

The court in Uniontown yesterday approved the report of the board of viewers for the construction of the inter-county bridge over the Monongahela river at Masontown, connecting with Cumberland township, Greene county; one over the Yough river at Layton, in Perry township, and another over the Yough river at Waltondale, in Henry Clay township.

The matter now rests with the county commissioners. Construction of the bridges is rather uncertain, owing to the fact that there are no funds
available for this purpose.

It is estimated that the total cost of the two smaller bridges would not exceed $10,000. The inter-county bridge at Masontown would cost approximately $500,000, to be divided between the two counties.

Steel Men Hold Conference With Attorney General

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 24.—Five independent steel companies of the eight named in Senate resolutions ordering
an investigation of the proposed merger were represented at a conference with Attorney General Daugherty today, arranged at the latter's request
in order that the Department of Justice could inform itself of the details.
The companies represented were the Brier Hill Steel Company, the Steel & Tube Company of America, the Midvale Steel & Ordnance Company, the Republic Iron & Steel Company and Inland Steel Company.

The representatives were understood to have informed Attorney General Daugherty that the projected consolidation would not be consum-
mated until the Department of Justice
had been fully advised.

CANADA WATCHES IMPORTATION OF INDUSTRIAL HELP

By Associated Press. HARRISBURG, May 24.—Methods followed by the Canadian Employment Service in finding employees for recent jobs and in distributing workers were outlined by H. C. Hudson, general superintendent of the Ontario offices of the employment service of Canada, at today's session of the convention of governmental labor officials of the United States and Canada.

The Canadian service, he explained, consists of 70 employment offices, extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific and, while each province retains complete autonomy in the administration of the offices within its boundaries, each is linked with the other provinces through uniform records and clearance systems. The Immigration Department, Mr. Hudson said, does not permit employers to bring workers into Canada until the Employment Service has ascertained, through the clearance system, that qualified workers cannot be secured in the country. Cooperation of interested groups is essential for the employment service, he added.

through the medium of local, provincial and Dominion employment service councils, equally representatives of employers and employees, acting in an advisory capacity to the executive heads of the various departments of labor involved. "A reduced transportation rate is available to workers proceeding to employment over a distance of 117 miles in all cases where the positions have been secured through the Service," Mr. Hudson said. "This concession has been utilized by literally thousands of workers and has represented a saving of hundreds of dollars which would otherwise have been spent in the purchase of transportation at the regular rates. In addition, it has enabled many workers to accept positions at a distance when they could not have done so if obliged to pay full fare."

Members of the employment staffs, he declared, are chosen solely on the basis of actual qualifications for the work and their aim is to satisfy the employer by the selection of the man or woman best qualified to fill his requirements. Confluence. CONFLUENCE, May 24.—Mr. and Mrs. Ray Miller and two children of Fairmont, W. Va., are visiting Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Parvett.

B. F. Brown has returned from Pittsburg, where his wife is a patient in Mercy Hospital, and reports her not improving. The improvements to Wm. Cleave's residence are almost completed. Residents are filling the streets in front of their residences. Robert Elliott of Somerset visited his parents here over Sunday. A number of people went to Port Hill Monday and accompanied the funeral of A. C. Fisher to this place where services were held in the Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. J. M. Cogley officiating. Interment in Johnson Chapel Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. William Buraworth and daughters, Ruth and Louise, were visiting Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Meyers. PERRYOPOLIS, May 24.—Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hixenbaugh and family of Chambers, spent yesterday with relatives here. Miss Freda Allen is visiting relatives here. Miss Margaret Sticket spent the week-end with friends at McKeesport. Mingo Warner of Morgantown, W. Va., is visiting relatives here.

REV. LEATHERMAN, MOUNT PLEASANT, RESIGNS CHARGE

Pastor of Lutheran Church There Has Served for 15 Years.

INVENTOR OF CABINET

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, May 24.—After 15 years as pastor of the Lutheran Church here, Rev. R. L. Leatherman has resigned. The resignation was submitted to the congregation Sunday morning. No action has been taken toward securing a successor.

The resignation came as a surprise, there having been no previous intimation to anyone, it is said. Rev. Leatherman will continue to reside here. It is said, having just wintered at a home in Washington street.

Rev. Leatherman has secured a patent on a diningroom cabinet, now on exhibition at the Patterson Hardware Company's store in Main street. This is said to be the most compact piece of furniture ever manufactured. It stands seven feet high, is three feet and 33 inches deep; contains a china closet, buffet, cupboard, 11-foot extension table, sewing table, ironing board, writing desk and table lamp receptacle. When the cabinet is closed the extension and sewing table, writing desk and ironing board cannot be seen.

Register for Vacation School.
On Sunday registration will be made by the Sunday schools of the town for those pupils who wish to attend the Vacation Bible School.

Teachers Entertained.
Miss Viola Stevenson was hostess to the first ward teachers, Misses Olga Barthel, Ola Storer, Eva Plotner, and Willa Glassburn, Mrs. Artie Doncaster, Stevenson, Misses Ida Christner, Anna Edwards and Araminta Gallely at the Stevenson bungalow near Laurelsville, at dinner last evening.

Miss Gordy Wins Scholarship.
Word has been received here that Miss Margaret Gordy, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. U. L. Gordy, formerly of this place, had been graduated at Chambersburg with the highest honors in her class and that she had won the four year scholarship to Wilson College, Chambersburg.

Prof. U. L. Gordy was formerly superintendent of the Mount Pleasant public schools and resigned here to accept the position at Chambersburg.

Miss Cullings Resigns.
George Cullings, a student at Ohio Northern University, Ada, O., is the guest of his sister, Miss Cullings, assistant superintendent of the Memorial Hospital. He will stay until Friday and accompany Miss Cullings, who has resigned, to her home at Schenectady, N. Y., where Miss Cullings will spend the summer.

Myer Posner underwent a successful operation at the Memorial Hospital yesterday.

Trick Fatal to Many Magicians.
Herrmann, famous magician, who died in 1896, invented most of his stage deceptions. To him is credited one of the most mystifying and at the same time the most perilous of all tricks, that of passing upon a plate bullets fired at the magician from different parts of the auditorium. To the profession it was known as the "trick with the trail of blood." In attempting its performance on the stage of a London theater, William E. Robinson, as he was better known, Chung Ling Soo, met his death. Another victim was an Irish conjurer, who dropped dead, struck by six bullets, on a Dublin stage; others were a son of the famous French magician Edmond de Grisy, the wife of the German premeditator, Dr. Linney and the well known "Black Wizard of the West," who was killed on a Deadwood, South Dakota, stage. It is said too that E. T. Bartlett perverted the trick to the use of deliberate suicide in a Lynn, Massachusetts, theater.

The Middle Ages.
The middle ages was a period of about a thousand years in the history of Europe, beginning with the fall of the Roman empire in 476 A. D., and ending with the fall of the eastern Roman empire in 1453 A. D. The middle ages include the years between the close of the classic times and the dawn of the modern era, and constituted the epoch of feudalism, chivalry and the Crusades. According to Italian, the middle ages comprise about 1,000 years, from the invasion of France by Clovis in 476 to that of Napoleon by Charles VIII in 1494. From the close of the middle ages came the invention of printing, the discovery of America and the revival of learning in the fifteenth century.

NATURE DENIED SNAIL BRAIN

Only Thinking Apparatus Creature Can Boast of Consists of a Few Nerve Cells.

Just 30,000 snail shells will buy a wife in Africa if a man is in a hurry and not too particular, but to get a really good one requires about 60,000 shells, according to Harold L. Madson, curator of the Cleveland Museum of Natural History. The African uses the eggs of the snail for food, but saves the shells with which to buy his wife. Money, cowrie, a name given to certain kinds of shells, were used as a medium of exchange in India and other far countries as early as 700 A. D.

White coral and other shell animals, after being subjected to enormous pressure and tense heat, when buried in the earth, ultimately are turned into marble which is used to build the finest palaces of man.

Snails appear to walk on their stomachs, but they have a soft foot by which they move. In some types it is shaped like a hatchet. One group of shell animals walks on its head. The chambered nautilus is the most beautiful of this type. Its eyes are under its arms, and its mouth is on top of its head.

A snail has a heart, all right, and eyes, but he will never die from consumption of the brain, for his only thinking apparatus is a few nerve cells. He lives to be about eight years old, but he has the ability to live four years without eating anything. This has been proved several times. In 1843 a professor in a British museum was examining some snails which had been stuck on cardboard for four years. He noticed that one looked to be alive, and after he placed it in warm water the animal was soon feeding on cabbage leaves and in a short time became active as a normal snail.

REGRETTED HIS SUDDEN FAME

Best Harts Said Not to Have Welcomed Acclaim Which Met "The Heathen Chinee."

Best Harts once told Mark Twain, it is told in the "Autobiography of Mark Twain," in Harper's Magazine, that his (Harts') fame was an accident—an accident that he much regretted for a while. Harts said that he had written "The Heathen Chinee" for amusement, then had thrown it in the waste basket; that presently there was a call for copy to finish out the Overland Monthly and let it go to press. He had nothing else, so he fished the "Chinee" out of the basket and sent it to the editor. "I have all remember," Twain says in that part of his autobiography written in 1906, "it created an explosion of delight whose reverberations reached the last corners of Christendom, and Harts's name, from being obscure to invisibility in the one week, was as notorious and as visible in the next as it had been painted on the sky in letters of astronomical magnitude." Harts regarded this fame as a disaster, because he was already working on such things as "The Luck of Roaring Camp" and "Tennessee's Partner."

The HOME GARDEN

What is Home without a Garden?

Eat a Carrot a Day

The development of vegetable diet in urban communities has been remarkable since the close of the war. Its growth during the widespread propaganda and the necessity of raising home food during the stressful days of the great conflict. A number of vegetables, fresh grown, young, have become articles of every-day consumption in the markets of all towns of 10,000 or more. One of the newcomers is the young carrot with its green, furry leaves, according to the show windows of the market.

Five years ago young carrots were a rarity in the winter months—in fact, there was hardly a market for them. Head lettuce and tomatoes have joined the every-day-in-the-year class in the markets where only a few years ago they were unknown during the mid-winter months. All this is due to the great benefit of the national health.

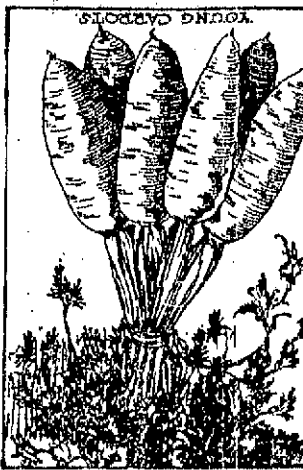

The carrot has become indispensable, both as a fine vegetable itself and in its matured form as a flavoring for soups, stews and kindred dishes.

The carrot in its wild state is a native of Europe, Asia and the British Isles. It was developed as a vegetable originally in Holland. When the Virginia colony was being planted in the United States the carrot moved across from Holland to take its place in English culinary affairs and Queen Elizabeth sampled it.

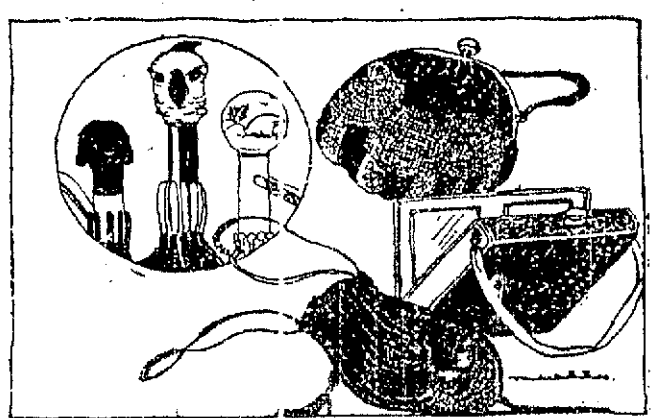

However, the French were the expert gardeners to develop all the fine varieties of carrots and their remains the models of the tribe. It is a vegetable to be put in as soon as the ground can be worked, and planted at intervals for a continuous crop of young carrots. It needs to grow to perfection, a light, friable soil, but isn't very particular, being a most accommodating vegetable, which will do its duty almost anywhere.

The carrot seed germinates much more slowly than other early vegetables, taking from three weeks to almost four in some cases. It is best to plant lettuce or radishes with the carrot seed, and these will be ready to pull and harvest by the time the carrot seed is breaking through. They are useful, also, to mark the row for purposes of cultivation.

They should be sown about half an inch deep and thinned to three inches apart in the row. Pulling the radishes and lettuce planted with them usually automatically performs this task. Carrots may be planted in rows nine inches apart in the home garden, where space is limited.

Crack West Penn Ball Team Defeats Fayette Bakers With Ease, 11-0

Ballways Men Hit Freely; Bakers Held to Two Safe Blows.

NEXT CLASH TOMORROW

The West Penn had a walk-away in a City League game with the Fayette Bakers at the Fayette field last evening. The final result of the seven-inning contest was 11-0. Thompson held the Baker batsmen at bay throughout, allowing only two hits. In the meantime his teammates were running the ball mightily and piling up a safe lead.

Little did walk on the mound but could not play the entire game. Poor support contributed to the defeat, the Bakers being credited with five errors. In the fifth and sixth frames the ballways men could not be retired until they had scored four runs.

Ballfield, the Baker middle fielder, made a sensational catch after misplaying a liner to middle and prevented a possible home run by McMahon. Thursday evening the fast Lennox team and the West Penn will clash. The game should be one of the best in the schedule as both sides are from high ratings. They are scheduled for first place.

Presbyterians Win Over Evangelicals

The Presbyterians won over the Evangelicals, 15-7 in a Church League game last evening at May Field. Venersky, King and Solsson featured for the defeated outfit while Smith and Chambers held honors for the Presbyterians. Stillwagon and Lee pitched for the loser had four and six strikeouts respectively, while Kahley and Chambers, Presbyterian moundmen, got four apiece.

The batteries were Stillwagon, Lee and Venersky for the Evangelicals; Kahley, Chambers and Evans for the Presbyterians.

COKERS PLAY THREE GAMES ALL IN A ROW

The Connellsville Independents have a hard program ahead of them before the end of this month. The team is scheduled to play the Pittsburgh Collegians here Saturday on a Tuesday will meet the Homestead Grays in two games one in the morning and one in the afternoon.

The Cokers will be "bitting on all six" by the time the three games are played off and expected to show the colored team some real opposition this year.

The Collegians, piloted by Dick Guy, are also in rare good form for this period of the year. The team is quite an attraction wherever it is billed and due to the fact that the game last Saturday was postponed a large crowd is expected this week-end.

The games on Tuesday will be attended by the biggest crowds of the early season. There are many fans who have seen the Grays play on every trip here and they will not miss this opportunity.

Kozar is scheduled to pitch Saturday's game and both he and Duraway will likely be the selections to face the Grays.

The Tornado Juniors defeated the Poplar Grove Cloud Busters in the opening game of the former's season last evening by a score of 11-5. The feature of the game was the pitching of Wee Butch Sandusky who had 12 strike-outs. Rist and Angli worked for the Cloud Busters.

The Tornado Juniors desire to arrange games with all 17-18 year old teams away from home Call Bell 485-R.

The Everson Freeman's baseball team is anxious to arrange games away from home for Decoration Day. Write E. Malik, Everson, Pa.

The First Presbyterian Church team plays the Lutherans in a postponed game at May Field at 5:30 o'clock this evening. The contest was scheduled for last Friday but called off on account of rain. It is a church league game.

The Everson Freeman will play the Poplar Grove Klondikes at Everson on Saturday.

One of the popular players in the City League is Andy Thomas of the Juniors. He is some hitter and certainly can run for a big fellow. He is connecting every game for a hit or two.

Managers of both the Lennox Club and the West Penn are confident in their ability to win tomorrow evening. Barnhart the ace of the Lennox pitching staff will be on the mound and either Swopes or Frazier will work for the West Penn.

The Pittsburgh Pirates won from Philadelphia 10-3 yesterday, driving two pitchers to the bench while Cincinnati again trounced New York and Boston hung it on St. Louis. The Pirates are very close to the top position and should the same results be effective today the Bucs will be on top.

The Covenanters played the United Presbyterians at May Field Monday evening in a Church League game, too.

former easily winning, 7-1, over the champions of last season. Kerr, on the mound for the victors, held the U. P. batters entirely under control at all times. The defeated team was saved from a shut-out by a single tally in the last inning.

Interest in the two leagues in the city is beginning to warm up. Games of teams in both circuits are well attended.

GREB WINS TITLE FROM GENE TUNNEY IN 15-ROUND SCRAP

Harry Greb of Pittsburgh last night wrested the light-heavyweight championship from Gene Tunney a Madison Square Garden, New York. He was awarded the judges' decision. Greb scored faster than ever and although knocked to the ropes by Tunney's body blows came back strong and worked on the champion's face bringing blood in quantities.

The scrap went the full 15 rounds scheduled and although the fight had tamed somewhat in the 14th round, Greb started things in the final by landing a wild swing on Tunney's jaw and then planted a right on the jaw and sent him to the ropes. They were clinched when the bell rang.

Vanderbilt to Dawson Road Is To Be Improved

Special to The Courier
DICKERSON, RUN, May 24.—The State Highway Department is getting ready to tar and gravel the state road from the Vanderbilt borough line to the Dawson bridge. It is hoped the work done this time will make the road passable. In the past the work done on the road would not pass inspection.

BOB VEACH SLUGGER OF THE OLD SCHOOL

One of Few Batters in Big Leagues to Use Free Swing.

No Matter What Pitcher Faces Him or What the Situation Is, Detroit Player Always Takes a Long Cut, "From the Ear."

There is only one 100 per cent natural hitter or real slugger in the American League and he is Bob Veach, left fielder of the Detroit Tigers. Since Napoleon Lajoie led the batting, free swingers have become about as removed from baseball as the dodo from this earth.

Lajoie was a natural batsman, probably the greatest that ever faced a pitcher. Lajoie's success prompted batsmen to accept the free swing as the proper method at bat.

Lajoie passed and in his place came Ty Cobb. Cobb was a natural batsman, a great scientific batsman. Cobb never has been a natural batsman, never a free swinger. He is a chop batter, meeting the ball in front with a chop stroke.

His success brought about a change in batting style and the newcomers followed his example. The great batsman that strung along with Cobb, this

Bob Veach.

Speaker George Staler, Eddie Collins, and others, are all exponents of the chop stroke, all scientific hitters.

The natural batter "takes a nasty cut at the ball in the parlane of the sport." He swings from the ear with the bat, not through the bat. He is the only man in the American league that does this today. No matter what pitcher he opposes what situation he happens to find himself in, Veach always swings with the same motion, always takes a long cut, "from the ear."

KILLINGER SHORT OF BIG LEAGUE DEMANDS

Highly-Touted College Star Falls to Make Good.

Manager Huggins of Yankees, Sends Pennsylvania State Player to Newark of International for More Seasoning.

Glenn Killinger, highly-touted college recruit, has failed to make the big league grade. He has been sent to Jersey City in the International league.

Killinger at the present time is far removed from major class in the opinion of Manager Huggins. The Penn State star however must be carried by the New York club for one year. When he signed with the Yankees a number of major league clubs were clamoring for his services.

Hugo Bezdek, who handled his affairs with the major league clubs naturally arranged a contract that protected the youngster. Killinger received a fancy sum for signing. In addition his contract is of such a nature that he is certain of one year's retention by the New York club.

The greatest weakness of Killinger is at the bat. It doesn't seem as if he would ever be able to hit major league pitching.

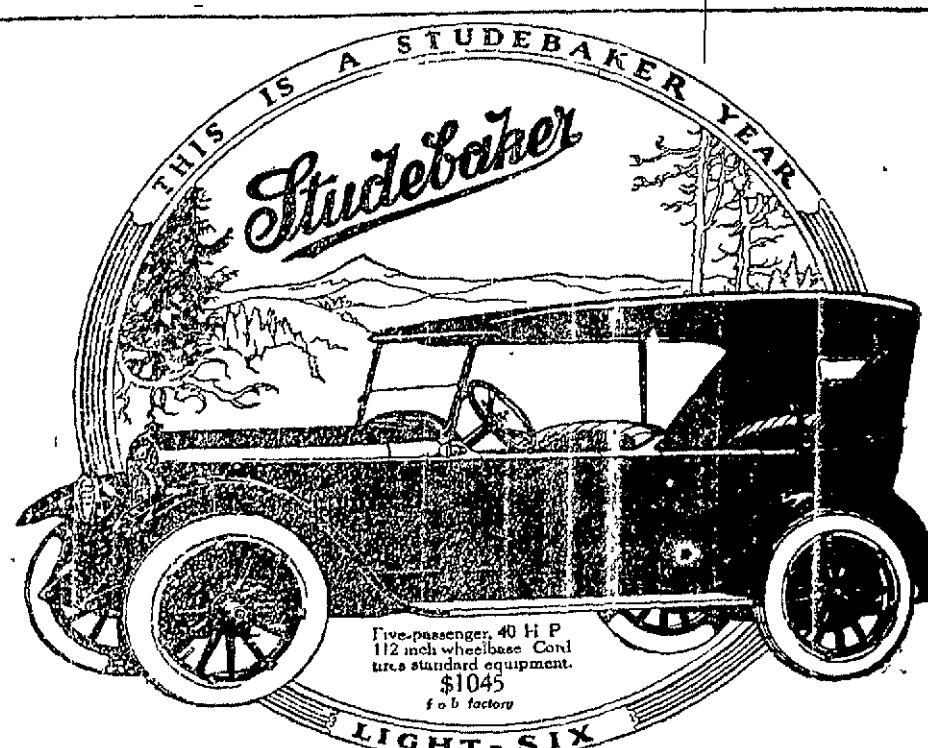

Killinger came to the Yankees highly touted. Convinced he would be was ready for the majors. It seems as if Bezdek was either spooning somebody or was carried away by his great interest in the youngster.

Former Consuela Vanderbilt and Husband Plan Palace.

RESIDENCE TO COST MILLION

Grandeur and Simplicity of the Middle Ages Combined With Conveniences of Today—To Be Little in Way of Modern Decorative Art—House on Rugged Promontory Commands Extensive View of Beautiful Blue Coast—Great Sun Parlor.

"I have been able to obtain the first authentic details of the new residence which M. and Mme. Jacques Balsan, the French capitalist and sportsman and the former duchess of Marlborough (widow of the late Duke of Marlborough), are erecting on the Riviera, at a cost, it is said, of more than $1,000,000."

So writes the Paris correspondent of the Daily Express, adding:

"The property consists of about 500 acres of pine land perched on a rugged promontory between Bagnieu and Monte Carlo, more than 1,500 feet above sea level, and overlooking the quiet little medieval town of Eze, with a magnificent view of the entire littoral."

"The residence is an octagonal pile in pure medieval style, with immense masses of masonry, giving the impression of great solidity and bulk. The simplicity—even austerity—and harmony of its lines recall nothing so much as one of those Twelfth century monasteries such as one seen depicted in the engravings of Viollet-le-Duc. The building will, in fact, show many characteristics of the old monastic style."

"The ground floor, around which will run a broad open cloister of Twelfth century style will contain the large vaulted dining room, salons, reception rooms and library. The bedrooms, guest rooms and the private apartments of the owners will be on the first floor, with roomy loggias instead of the ordinary balconies. The terrace, vaulted and screened by massive walls and arches, will contain the kitchen, wine cellar, servants' quarters and the heating and lighting apparatus, both supplied with electricity from a private plant."

"The most striking of all the rooms will be an immense circular salon or sun parlor on the ground floor, giving a magnificent view on one side of the famous Cap d'Ant and the Italian coast, on another the Mediterranean, and on still another the entire valley which leads up to 'La Turbie,' with the ancient temple of Mars."

"The interior arrangements of the house are to conform, so far as possible, with its external austerity and simplicity. There will be little in the way of modern decorative art. Tapestries will take the place of the usual paintings, while sculpture there will be practically nothing. The conception of this residence seems to be purely personal, reflecting the desire of the owners to combine the grandeur and simplicity of the Middle Ages with the indispensable conveniences of the present day."

"The furnishing of this house has been engaging the attention of M. Balsan for a number of years. It will provide him with a worthy receptacle for his magnificent collection of antiquities."

"The stone that is being exclusively employed is taken from the same quarries that supplied the material for the famous Pont du Gard and which was used for a large number of monuments of the Twelfth century."

"One peculiarity of the new dwelling is that it will not be included in a park, though its isolation will be all the more effective on account of the stern and rugged wildness of the site. It is expected that the house will be completed by the end of the year."

Woman Explains Why She Kept President Harding Waiting.

President Harding, out to call on a relative, who was ill, at 34 Quincy street, N. W., Washington, got into 34 Quincy street, N. E., by mistake. He was greeted by ten-year-old Herbert Farmer.

"Is your daddy home?" the President asked.

"Yes," the boy replied, "he's upstairs, and ma's in the kitchen baking bread."

The boy summoned his father, then, dashed into the kitchen, with great urgency.

"Ma, come into the parlor, quick," he shouted. "President Harding is here."

Ma went right on with her baking. Later, she remarked: "Well, I couldn't have left my dough."

SEVEN CITIES BUILT ONE ON THE OTHER

Amazing Discovery of Pennsylvania Archaeologists in the Holy Land.

Presence of a civilization dating back to 1700 B. C. has been discovered at the site of Beisan, the Beth-Shan of the Bible, according to word received here from Dr. Clarence R. Fisher, head of the University of Pennsylvania archaeological expedition working in the Holy Land.

The reports stated that relics of this civilization were found in the seventh subcellar of the hill of Beisan, and that on top of it were piled in distinct strata six other cities of civilizations. However, extensive digging thus far has proceeded only to the third level, uncovering the remains first of an Arab city, below it a Byzantine community containing pretentious edifices, and below this the ruins of a Roman city.

The most important find was hieroglyphic stela of the Fourteenth century, as yet undeciphered. Doctor Fisher reported he hoped to find one or more of the iron chariots for which the place was famous in Biblical history.

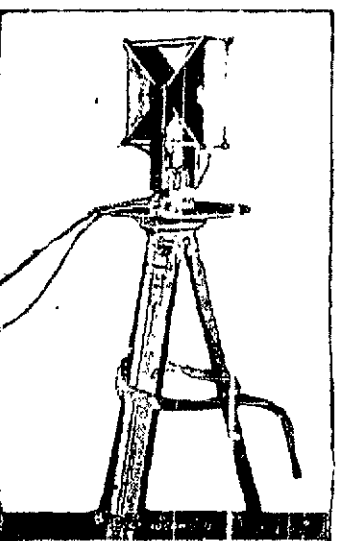

The University of Pennsylvania has engaged in this sort of work since 1889, when the university museum was founded as the department of archaeology. This institution became the beneficiary of the results of four Babylonian expeditions which operated on the site of Uruk for extensive periods between 1888 and 1900.

The Temple of Bel, probably the oldest known edifice in the world, was brought to light in these investigations and the collections of 20,000 clay tablets brought to this country made the university a shrine for divers into ancient history. Portions of the code of laws of Hammurabi, king of Babylon about 2000 B. C., of the Sumerian account of the creation of the world, of the founding of the principal cities of Babylon and the deluge, deciphered from the sunbaked slabs of clay, have proved of value and intense interest to scholars.

NEW BUGGY SOLD IN OREGON

It Is Only One In State, So Far as Vehicle House Can Learn.

The only new buggy in Oregon, so far as a leading vehicle house of Portland was able to discern, has just been sold at the little town of Central Point.

A man at Condon, Ore., wanted to purchase a buggy, and sent his order to a firm in Portland. The firm reported it had none in stock. He was insistent, however, and wrote the firm to get him a buggy if possible. A search of Portland vehicle houses was made unsuccessfully and then inquiries were sent in vain to Salem, Eugene, Pendleton, Medford and other points. Finally a traveling salesman remembered having seen a buggy at a store at Central Point. The buggy was purchased.

WANTED: A Suffragist Wife

Something unusual had happened at suffrage headquarters that morning. A man—a big, thoroughly masculine one, too, who looked as if with the proper make-up he might have been a moving picture impersonation of the good looking western ranchman or cowboy—had actually walked up to Miss Hester Judd's desk—Hester was the paid secretary of the organization—and had asked to enroll as a member. To be sure there were many men on the list of membership, but those men members were usually brothers or fathers whose task of becoming suffragists had been smoothed by some daughter wife, or sister, eager to add new names to the roll and more membership fees to the treasury. It was really rather unusual for a man of his own free will to walk right up to the secretary and say, as did the newest member, "If you please, Miss Judd, I like to belong to your organization, and if there is anything I can do besides paying a check for a hundred dollars to show I am a member, be so good as to tell me what that is. I'd like to come to the meetings and do anything else I can to help."

The newcomer hesitated when it came to signing the enrollment blank, and then he said to Hester: "I may as well tell you that I am acting for—Mr. Warwick Stevens—and not for myself. I am his private secretary."

Perhaps I had better sign my own name, when Hester took the blank she saw that the secretary's name was Robert Walker.

Hester, in virtue of the generous enrollment fee and perhaps even more because the newcomer was of the out doors type of man that especially appealed to her, felt inspired to detain him as long as possible. She rose from her chair at her desk and conducted him through the four or five rooms that made up the suffrage headquarters—the reading room with its array of suffrage pamphlets and magazines, the tea room with its cheerful clean wicker chairs and tables, a private office for the officers, a cubbyhole of a pantry and the outer office where she herself had her desk.

Mr. Walker spoke with something of a drawl and this, as well as a certain hesitancy and friendliness of his manner, betokened to Hester that he was not a man of the city. She was not especially surprised when he asked her to let him talk to her a minute. He motioned to two wicker chairs in the tea room placed conveniently for a tête à tête and so began their conference. Mr. Stevens, whom he represented, was, he told Hester, a grandson of Mrs. Warwick Stevens, senior, and of course Hester had heard of her as one of the most prominent of the very wealthy suffragists.

"Perhaps I should not have told you I was Mr. Stevens' secretary," said Mr. Walker. "So I'll depend on you not to say anything about that. For a reason I cannot mention now Mr. Stevens is very anxious to be acquainted with some of the prominent suffragists here. That is why I dropped in."

Having filled his overcoat pockets with pamphlets on the various phases of suffrage the new member left the headquarters for that day promising to return the next day when Miss Hazel Stopperton—usually mentioned in newspaper accounts as the "suffrage beauty"—was to give a talk on the cause.

Hester thought it was perhaps because they were both secretaries, though of rather different sorts, that they were attracted to each other from the start and she was not entirely surprised when after a few interviews in the headquarters Mr. Walker took her completely into his confidence regarding Mr. Stevens' attitude toward suffrage.

"I tell you how it is," he began. "Young Stevens is very anxious to know some of the young women interested in the cause. His grandmother, who is completely absorbed with the question he made a queer sort of disposition of her property. Warwick has her own grandsons, and she has stipulated that she will give him a couple of millions more or less on the spot if he will marry a suffragist, and if he does not marry a suffragist she will cut him off entirely. In her will she has gone so far as to say that the girl must have been actively associated with suffrage before she made that stipulation, because it would be an easy matter for any girl whom Mr. Stevens fancied to assume an interest in suffrage as a pretense. However, Mr. Stevens doesn't care for any girl in particular, so he is to put it bluntly, in the matrimonial market for an attractive young suffragist."

"Can you imagine anything so calculating?" was Hester's reply. "He must be rather mercenary to be willing to marry for money rather than love."

"Oh, I wouldn't be so hard on him as that. He figures that the money would be a rather pleasant little bit to have and since he has never fallen in love with any one yet he might as well fall in love with a suffragist as anybody else."

Hester laughed. "So he has commissioned you to meet some attractive suffragist and introduce him to them so he can find a wife to fill the bill?"

should say that the bad looking woman must all be anti's."

"Wouldn't it be wonderful if he should meet and marry Hazel Stopperton?" suggested Hester, beginning to approve of the scheme. "He couldn't help but love her—she is a regular goddess."

"I don't quite believe Mr. Stevens goes in for the goddess type and if you mean that tall, copper haired, color-headed lady who talked with broad a's here the other afternoon why I can just say that Mr. Stevens wouldn't fall for her, one little bit."

"What type does he like?" asked Hester quite willing to help in the search for a wife, since it was all for the cause.

"I've heard him say he was partial to smallish brown-eyed girls. I know for a fact he's very fond of dimples."

Both secretaries reddened a little with confusion—Mr. Walker because he felt he had said something rather foolish and Hester because she was little and had brown eyes and very nice dimples. There was an awkward pause and then Mr. Walker went straight to the point.

"I have an idea that Mr. Stevens would like a wife very much like yourself. Excuse me for being personal but ninety nine men would love your type—your type is a girl like you—the one that would fall in love with Miss Stopperton."

There was another awkward pause and then Mr. Walker went on to say that if he should arrange to have Mr. Stevens meet you and he should fall very much in love with you as I am practically sure he would, judging from what you have told me about his taste—is there any reason you know of why—well what I want to know is this—are you engaged to any other man or pledged in any way that would make it quite out of the question for you to think of marrying Mr. Stevens?

Hester struggled to hide her embarrassment. She thought of half a dozen possible things to say to relieve the tension, but the silence grew longer till Mr. Walker explained, "You see sometimes a man like Mr. Stevens falls very much in love with a girl like you in a very short time—and I'd hate to have him lose his heart only to find out that—that you were engaged to somebody else."

"But I'm afraid you didn't know that I'm only a paid secretary. To be sure I'm a suffragist but a man in Mr. Stevens' position would want to marry a society suffragist."

"There was nothing about that in the grandmother's stipulation," argued Mr. Walker. "All that was necessary was a suffragist who would work for the cause and you would handle that all the rest put together."

It was late in the afternoon and fortunately the headquarters was empty save for Hester and the big man sitting beside her desk so there were no eyes to be opened in dismay when he leaned forward and took Hester's two hands in his and kissed them. Then he slipped on his knees before her in the attitude of supplication that Hester thought had passed out of mode among suitors.

"I'm in love about you, Hester. You must listen to me. I've known you only a few days but to me you are falling in love doesn't take long. That very first time I felt there was something that drew us together and I was fool enough to think that you felt that way, too. Tell me you love me—believe in fact I know that I do love you. There is no use saying I don't. Perhaps after all Mr. Stevens would like Hazel Stopperton. I can't be a bachelorette even if I am a suffragist."

And it was not till a half hour later, after Hester had been escorted to her boarding house door that she realized that she was really promised to marry the heir of the celebrated Mrs. Stevens and that Robert Walker, private secretary was merely a convenient alias of that notable woman's grandson.

THE SCISSOR.

ONE ARABIAN NIGHT, in which Pola Negri, supported by a great cast, is seen in the leading role, is being shown today at this theatre as the leading attraction. One Arabian Night, an Associated First National production, is a story such as those and brings to the screen all the mystery, romance and intrigue by which the famous book won a spell over its readers. The spirit of the Orient has been caught by the camera resulting in a picture which will live long in the memory. The book whose title has gone through various translations contains a thousand and one stories. The authorship of them has been lost in the dim past and only the names of the translators appear on the various editions. Most of them descend into each other the auditors of the story teller relating their experience one after the other.

Remarkable is the imagination displayed by the authors and thrilling adventures are the stories. Even modern day writers do not shine by comparison.

It was this "thousand and one stories" which first attracted the attention of the lovers of romance and mystery to the Orient.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday Richard Barthelmess will be seen in "Tolable David."

THE PARAMOUNT.
"GO GET HIM"—A daring adventure of the Northwest mounted police with Bill Pankhurst in the stellar role is the feature attraction today and tomorrow at this theatre. Some of the scenes for "Go Get Him" when Bill Pankhurst's second feature produced by the W.C. & L. Feature Productions Inc. were shot in the mountains near Mojave desert. The heat was so intense that the members of the company to get away from the sun's blistering rays crawled back under the huge rocks, but did not remain long as the battle broke had also found it too warm and had retired to the shade spots. The only other shade for miles was at the foot of the mountain where a few trees had weathered the hot sun. Director Curran who is always in condition did not seem to mind the intense heat and not until late of the company ordered did he realize that the heat was so great. Work was stopped and everyone retired to the foot of the mountain for a rest. Director Curran laughingly remarked that he thought it a very ordinary summer day when one of the cowboys said he would bet his silver spurs against a dollar that he could find an egg on the rocks where they were working. The bet was called by Mr. Curran and the cowboy rushed to the camp kitchen and secured a couple of eggs and they climbed back to the location in about 10 minutes they returned the cowboy still wearing his spurs and blazes a silver dollar.

The Big Muskeg

by VICTOR ROUSSEAU

They ran down toward the lake, carrying Wilton between them, and making instinctively for the shelter of the undergrowth.

As they passed the road, Bowyer came out of the stable, pulling fiercely at the horse, which was fastened to the rig. He had set his foot upon the stop when Lee Chambers and Hackett broke upon him from among the trees.

They made a leap for the vehicle. "Let us in, you!" Chambers yelled.

Bowyer dealt him a blow with the whipstock that sent him staggering. With a vile oath Hackett sprang for the stop. Bowyer lashed him across the face, causing him to miss his footing, and cursing and shouting, the two men rushed after him and disappeared down the trail. The sound of the galloping horses died away. Molly knelt at Wilton's side, brushing his face with water from the lake. The factor held his wrist.

"His pulse beats sound," he said. "He'll come back to himself soon. Let's leave him here."

The girl hardly heard him. Pitiously she scanned Wilton's face for some signs of returning consciousness. But Wilton did not stir, though he was breathing easily.

Presently, with a hideous clamor, the two outlaws returned. Molly held her breath as they came back along the road, only a few yards above where she crouched with the factor. But they passed on, and turned up toward the camp, which blazed furiously; a flaming parallelogram against the glow of the eastern sky, into which the rim of the sun just projected from the horizon.

Even as she watched the girl saw the blazing walls tumble inward. The men leaped back, and then, shouting drunkenly, made their way toward the stables.

"Come away, lass!" muttered McDonald, pulling at Molly's arm. He took Wilton by the legs, and together they crept with him cautiously further into the bushes beside the lake.

Suddenly Wilton opened his eyes. And his first words fell like an icy chill on the girl's heart.

"Kitty, I tried to save your life!" he muttered.

He was thinking of the fire. He stared into Molly's eyes without recognition, and his own closed again. Once more the factor pulled at the girl's sleeve, and she whispered eagerly: "He'll get well, come! It's our chance—a grand chance for us!"

"What do you mean?" she whispered back.

"Come away, lass!" he whispered eagerly. "He'll get well, come! It's our chance—a grand chance for us!"

"What do you mean?" she whispered back.

"Come away, lass!" he whispered eagerly. "He'll get well, come! It's our chance—a grand chance for us!"

"What do you mean?" she whispered back.

"Come away, lass!" he whispered eagerly. "He'll get well, come! It's our chance—a grand chance for us!"

"What do you mean?" she whispered back.

"Come away, lass!" he whispered eagerly. "He'll get well, come! It's our chance—a grand chance for us!"

Horror-stricken at the sight, Molly crouched by Wilton's side. His eyes were open again. He did not yet recognize her, but it was evident that consciousness was coming back to him.

As the policeman began to carry the bodies of the outlaws into the stable the factor plucked violently at Molly's arm.

"What do you want to do, father?" she whispered.

"I'll tell you, lass. Ye ken the trail that strikes off from the road below the lake and runs nigh the portage? We'll travel east through the bush two about. We'll go to the store and pack our few things and go away, we'll go. We'll travel east through the bush two hundred miles or maybe more, till we strike the line somewhere. And then we're free. Dinna say no, lass."

She was touched by the babbling stammered words. They went straight to her heart.

"He's naething to ye, lass?" asked the factor, pointing at Wilton.

Molly looked at him. He had fallen into a deep sleep. She could do nothing for him by remaining.

"No, father, he's naething to me," she answered.

"We'll put him a wee bit higher on the slope, where they'll see him," the factor whispered.

They raised Wilton and laid him on the new-fallen snow, not far from the road. Then, cautiously and secretly, they turned and plunged into the depths of the underbrush.

It was two hours later when Wilton opened his eyes, to find himself lying in the stable. The inspector was standing at the door; the constable paced at his side.

Wilton looked at Quinn with astonishment. He could remember nothing since his plunge into the burning building.

"Jack!" he called feebly. "What's happened to me? How did you get here, old man?"

Quinn, who appeared to be struggling with some deep emotion, did not answer him.

"You know how I got here?" continued Wilton. "They trapped Miss McDonald and her father—where is she, Jack?"

"They're not here, Will."

"They must be here. I tell you I saw her. That beast Bowyer had her by the throat. It made me see red! They got me down, and the place was afire, and—"

"Don't tell me that, Will," said the inspector in a choked voice. "Don't tell me any more."

"Why not, Jack? What's the matter with you?"

"Because you're under arrest for the willful murder of Joe Bostock. And I've—I've cautioned you!"

CHAPTER XVII

The Trap.

Bob Payne, the lawyer, could not rattle up his mind whether his client, Will Carruthers, was innocent or guilty, and that was a position in which he did not often find himself.

Either Carruthers was one of the coolest and most deliberate murderers that had ever lived, or he was the victim of an extraordinary well-woven conspiracy.

Whether Wilton was innocent or guilty, Bob Payne meant to fight to the last. He had taken a liking to Carruthers, and he was resolved to free him. That, of course, precluded his own belief in his client's innocence.

He found his client seated in his cell, scribbling upon pieces of paper covered with diagrams, just as he had found him on the occasion of his previous visit. Wilton rose and they shook hands.

The lawyer sat down. "Let's go over the facts together," he said. "There's going to be a fight. You realize that? Not that you won't win out, of course you will. But when popular passions are stirred—when a newspaper campaign has practically prejudged the case, it's apt to be reflected in the minds of the jury. I've thought of asking for a change of venue. But—"

"I'm frank, Carruthers—the feeling is widespread, and Clayton is the town where your enemies have the least influence. I think we'll fight them here."

"I'll fight it out here," answered Wilton.

"Your luck has been infernal. If it could be proved that Bowyer hired those men to kidnap Miss McDonald and her father—though it wouldn't help directly—it would create a prejudice in the minds of the jury. We could bring that in as evidence. It would discredit Bowyer. It would force him into the witness-box and give us an opportunity. If those men—if Miss McDonald could go into the witness-box—we could present something of a case. But they're dead—at least those outlaws are dead—and their secret died with them."

"We can get Tommy there."

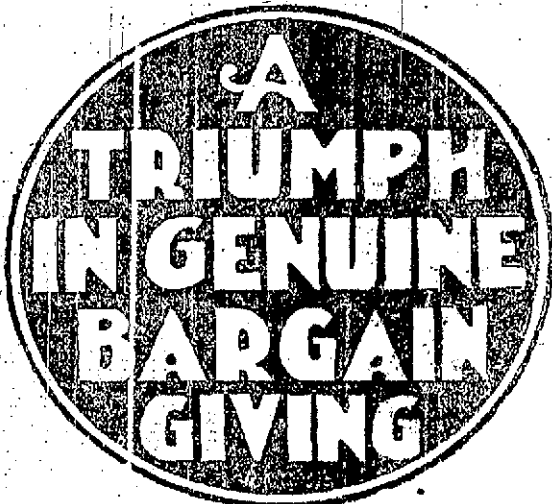

"You don't consider that he may be a star witness for the prosecution, Carruthers? He's got his neck to save. And, if your implication of Payne is the correct one, you remember that Payne is a director of the Clayton hospital, and donated a large sum of money to it. Three weeks in a private room there offer opportunities."

"You do believe that Payne is implicated?" asked Wilton.

"I do, Carruthers. I'll be frank with you. I didn't at first. But I'm convinced that either Payne or Bowyer was privy to Joe Bostock's murder. I believe it was an accident, and that they're playing on it to get you convicted."

travesty on the very name," he added, "while the emancipation of business under Harding is an accomplished fact."

"Notwithstanding the near approach to collapse of the monetary system of nearly every country in Europe," he continued, "we have balanced our budget, we are living within our income, we have issued no bonds and sold no treasury certificates. We have paid off $1,000,000 of the public debt, we have reduced taxation by $22,000,000 the first year and $52,500,000 more the second year. We have curtailed governmental expenses $1,800,000,000 and are today financially solvent and commercially sound and on the upgrade toward a normal resumption of American prosperity."

Citing the new and fixed charges from the war, Senator Watson said there could not be any great reduction in taxes for a decade or more but he contended the Republican party had kept its platform pledge to reduce taxes as far as possible consistent with government needs. This in part was possible, he said, by dismissal of more than 100,000 government employees in the last two years.

The pending tariff bill, which he hoped would be a prominent subject of Senator Watson's address, it would do much he said to restore business and prosperity. Protection he added had been a proven policy.

"Soldier bonus legislation," he presented, "before the close of the present session," according to Senator Watson, who declared it would involve no additional taxation, and finally will be paid "by the use of bonds of our debtors."

Reduction in railroad rates and wages must, Senator Watson said, come with financial maintenance of the carriers but he declared that railroad wages should not and would not return to pre-war levels.

The calling of unemployment labor and business conferences by President Harding was commended by Senator Watson who said that Mr. Harding favored government by "common counsel" and not the "autocracy" which he said had characterized the Wilson administration.

Discussing Indiana state affairs, Senator Watson urged a united party stand including support for Albert J. Beveridge, who won the Republican nomination from Senator Harry S. New.

Shady Grove Park Will Be Opened On Memorial Day

Shady Grove Park Fayette county's pleasure resort will open the 1924 season on Memorial Day, May 30, it was announced by Manager B. D. Miller this morning. Workmen have been employed for several weeks at the park and the place is just about in the best shape of its history. Before the opening date all renovation work will have been completed.

There are 10 acres of new picnic grounds and all the apparatus has been given a coat of fresh paint. A new organ for the merry-go-round, the first one since the initial opening of the park has been purchased and installed. There will be dancing after-noon and evening of the opening day.

Manager Miller is busy booking dates for many picnics especially those of the army and Sunday schools. He is endeavoring to make the park a more popular place this year than it has ever been in its history.

PATENT DESIGN IS POPULAR

"The patency design is being reproduced in many different materials, and to find it in a sport dress of velvet is a surprise. This model is worn with a hem hat matching in tone and trimmed with silver edged ribbon."

THE CHARM OF DOTTED SWISS

Colored Fabric Always Delightful and Never Goes Out of Style Fine for Kiddles

Colored dotted swiss is always a delightful fabric and fortunately it never goes out of style. For several years this material has played an important role in the development of clothes for children, as well as grown-ups, and such is emphatically true of apparel recommended for spring and summer. If a good quality is bought, and it never really pays to buy cheap, poor quality fabrics, a dotted swiss frock will stand very hard wear and tear and to a very large extent the fabric is its own trimming. Figured and dotted materials, plaids, checks, stripes, etc., require very little in the way of embellishment.

A frock designed for a girl of six to ten years featured the low waist with ruffles forming a flaring skirt. The dress was brown with tan dots and each ruffle was finished at its edge with a blanket stitch in tan wool. Navy dotted in red gray with rose or light blue, and red with white dots, are some of the popular color combinations.

In addition to the blanket stitch embroidery a tan wool cord also formed a facing at either side of the skirt. A smart hat to match might be developed, with tan crown and filled with tan wool embroidery and crocheted flowers of the wool trimming it.

When a dotted swiss frock is trimmed otherwise than with mere touches of simple embroidery, plain swiss is frequently used and net lace or plain bands of net set on the edges of ruffles on sleeves etc. also contribute to a dainty and effective trimming.

Both silk and wool jersey cloth are being extensively featured for children's dresses for spring bloomers almost always accompanying these frocks.

UTILITY HATS MOSTLY SMALL

Headgear for Dressy Occasions Goes to Other Extremes and Large Shapes Have Call

Utility hats for early wear are mostly small, says a milliner. For dressy occasions shapes go to the other extreme and are very large. Seen in profile the crown is large and dome shaped, the brim being about half the width of the crown. The front view shows a broad brim much wider from side to side than from back to front. The brim and crown are favorite shapes, and some models are best shaped with the brim or crown rolled up close to the crown. A good many models have a narrow ribbon-like brim and others come out a little over the forehead, which milliners say is apt to be more becoming.

In the moderate sized hats poke shapes have reappeared. What their reception will be is hard to say, but it is likely to become longer and more of the poke bonnet looks much more promising than it would otherwise. There is still the tendency to let the brim or the trimming drop on the side, and all side trimmings are extremely good. On some of the large hats wide ribbon is used. Wide white ribbon is one of the ultra fashion able notes in which fashion is indulging herself this season. The becoming, up rolling brim is still with us.

FASHION NOTES FROM PARIS

Long gauntlet cuffs coming to the break of the arm appear.

English or cyclic embroidery in tulle or crepe de chine is important.

Organdie, white or colored is used for collars and cuffs, gloves and blouses of all kinds.

Evening dresses are largely of beautiful beadwork with panels that cling to the ground work.

The wide armhole remains. The big square sleeve is replaced by one that fits tightly at the wrist.

The cape-back sleeve a straight piece of lace or material, which goes from one wrist across the back and down to the other wrist is much used for evening and afternoon frocks.

Two Years of Wretched Stomach Trouble Were Ended by Taking Tanlac, Says Mrs. John B. Carroll of Pittsburgh—Husband Also Benefited.

I am glad to say Tanlac has made me feel like an entirely different person, said Mrs. John B. Carroll, 410 North Ave., North Side, Pittsburgh, Pa.

My health failed me two years ago and my appetite was next to nothing. Everything I ate disagreed with me and although I chose my food carefully I was unable to put on weight. I was miserable. I had dizzy spells and my housework was almost too much for me.

"Hearing so much about Tanlac I decided to try it and am grateful for the good it has done me. I eat as I please now, my nerves are restored and my work is easy. My husband also has been greatly benefited by this medicine and we are both pleased to give it the highest praise."

Steel Heads in Conference With Attorney General

By Associated Press
WASHINGTON, May 23.—Representatives of the Bethlehem and the Lackawanna Steel companies, at a conference Monday with Attorney General Daugherty, gave assurances that the merger of the two companies would not be consummated until the Department of Justice completes its investigation. Mr. Daugherty announced.

The conference arranged at the request of the steel men was a prelude to the conference the Attorney General will have with representatives of the Bethlehem and other independent steel companies a meeting in the Senate resolution ordering an inquiry by the Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission into the proposed merger.

NO SET LENGTH FOR FAST

For Centuries Observation of Lent Was Largely a Matter for Individuals to Decide

The obscure history of the Lenten fast seems to suggest that it was an evolution of what has been a brief one day or 40 hours fast, put during every Sunday, into the 40 days of preparation to hasten the central feast of the year. However, a fast preparatory to Easter dates back almost into the 10th century. In the 10th century of the Second century St. Ambrose noted great variations in the length of the fast. Some persons fasting 10 days, others 16 hours, others several days. The one day fast was that of Gregory. The 10 hour fast was in memory of the 40 hours during which our savior lay in the tomb.

There were also great variations in the quality of the foods used in Lent. The Lenten fast was the brilliant tint of the Lenten fast. In his day, some abstained from meat, but of restraint that has life while others of all the living creatures, eat fish only. Others eat birds as well as fish, because, according to the Moslem account of creation, they too sprang from the water. Others abstain from fruit covered with a hard shell and from eggs. Some eat bread only, others eat even that, others again when they have fasted to the ninth hour partake of various kinds of food.

A subtle anarchy is a mist had gradually overlaid the slopes of other mountains, mellow in the brilliant tint of the Lenten fast. They have however a whole gamut of sounds that we can distinguish ranging from profound delight to menaces and anger. They have the ode of the quack, the song of abundance, the pout of grief and the long and mysterious warbles.

In any event they seem of the least disturbed at the noises we make near the hive, but they regard these perhaps as not of their world and possessed of no interest to them. It is possible that we on our side hear only a fractional part of the sounds the bees produce and they have many harmonies to which our ears are not attuned.—Macmillan, "The Swarm"
